10 Best Online Wine Shops

From mega-Web sites to tiny, quirky specialists, these e-merchants can procure great wines in top condition.

BY JON BONNÉ ILLUSTRATIONS BY PETER ARKLE

DESPITE YEARS OF SHOPPING FOR WINE ON THE INTERNET, I still can't quite get used to the idea. Wine, after all, isn't like a book or CD. Holding a bottle, inspecting its label—you just can't replicate that experience inside a browser window. Yet I do most of my wine buying online. Why?

For starters, the comparison shopping is unbeatable. With search engines like Wine-searcher.com and Google (which most retailers love), you no longer have to go to the Montrachet; the Montrachet will come to you. Cross-referencing the latest scores and top recommendations is blissfully easy, and especially pleasurable when you can do it at home in your bathrobe on a Saturday morning.

Certain things separate the top Web sites from the also-rans. Ease of use and good customer service matter, for a start; so does price. But ultimately, what really counts is selection. Maybe that's why so many of the 10 terrific sites below are established retailers with online divisions: They have the best access to a wide range of wonderful wines.

the top 10 online wine-buying web sites

APPELLATION AMERICA appellationamerica.com

This four-year-old site is the ultimate source for obscure American wines—Merlot from North Yuba, California, say, or Ohio River Valley Cabernet Sauvignon. It also offers wines directly from more than 120 wineries. One to try: the appealing 2005 Bowers Harbor Vineyards Semi-Dry Riesling ($14) from Michigan's Old Mission Peninsula. Tip: A search tool parses each state's shipping laws to determine which wines shoppers can buy.

AVALON WINE avalonwine.com

Run out of a modest Corvallis, Oregon, wine shop of the same name, this is a comprehensive source of top Washington and Oregon wines from producers like Beaux Frères and Leonetti

Cellar—though it sells great wines from obscure producers, too. Tip: Avalon's wine clubs, like the Northwest Big Reds Club and the Reserve Pinot Noir Club (membership costs $90 per month), are a great way to access up-and-coming stars, like Oregon's Daedalus Cellars and Washington's O-S Winery.

BOUNTY HUNTER RARE WINE & PROVISIONS bountyhunterwine.com

Mark Pope's Bounty Hunter is a restaurant in downtown Napa, as well as a catalog and Web site featuring top Napa and Sonoma wines. One recent find: the rare 2002 Mount Veeder Progeny Cabernet Sauvignon ($75) from Marco DiGiulio, who also made the cult Lokoya wines. Tip: Download the catalog; it's an always-enjoyable read.

BROWN DERBY INTERNATIONAL WINE CENTER brownderby.com

Great deals in Missouri on California wines? Brown Derby owner Ron Junge uses his long-standing connections to bring great California wines like Copain Syrah home to the Show-Me State. He also offers hard-to-find gems such as the 2002 Diebolt-Vallois Blanc de Blancs Champagne ($60). Tip: Many, but not all, of the wines here have low markups. Low inventory numbers ("Only 6 left!!") are often a guide to bottles that are going fast.

CHAMBERS STREET WINES
chambersstwine.com
Owners David Lillie and Jamie Wolff are consummate wine geeks who have assembled an impressively esoteric inventory

BAY AREA RESTAURANTS

BOUNTY HUNTER

Mark Pope began a mail-order wine business a decade ago. About two years ago, he opened a retail store in downtown Napa and brought in Jake Southworth to expand the menu beyond cheese and charcuterie. Working out of a closet-size kitchen with an outdoor grill, Southworth produces incredible down-home American food. The beer-can chicken, where the bird is coated in Cajun spices and cooked on a can of Tecate, is awesome. The place feels like a 19th century saloon where diners eat off marble tables amid shelves of wine. The selection includes more than 400 bottles, priced just above retail.

Cuisine: American

Specialties: Beer-can chicken; ribs, gumbo, chili, hot brown sandwich, cheese and charcuterie, chocolate brownie cake.

Seats: 45 (plus 24 outside)

Prices: $7.50-$18

Noise: 🍷🍷🍷

Parking: Free lot

Vitals: 975 First St. (at Main), Napa; (707) 255-0622. Open continuously for lunch and dinner 11a.m.-10p.m. Sunday-Thursday and until midnight Friday-Saturday. Beer and wine. No reservations. Credit cards accepted.

Napa's Bounty Hunter feeds the Western imagination

By HEATHER IRWIN

We're riding wine flights to a lather on a Saturday night at Bounty Hunter. The Cabs are as big as the Montana sky, and we're singing "Yippy-ki-yo, git along little Chianti" at the bar. The place is packed to capacity. We're sharing a single stool when — whoa, Nelly — my date suddenly wins the seating lotto and claims the tooled leather saddle chair that's the bar's prize ride. Jutting out his unshaven jaw, my guy has suddenly become the smokeless Marlboro man. Yee Haw!

Nestled in the heart of downtown Napa, Bounty Hunter Rare Wine & Provisions is a wine shop and bistro with a maverick moxie for the wine cowboy... All distressed wood, leather and patinated metals, the bar has that "old West" saloon feel.

Here's the skinny: About 10 years ago, wine enthusiast Mark Pope started collecting rare, unique and — to his palate and many others' — really great wines. He started the Bounty Hunter catalog and wine club, which quickly became a cult favorite, selling everything from super-high-priced premium finds to funky, inexpensive regional and international wines that just plain taste great. Not content to stop there, Pope piled on a hearty dose of Hemingway and Wild West gun-for-hire fantasy, restoring the historic Semorile Building into a modern-day saloon with dizzyingly high ceilings, a copper tub in the front window and a dark wooden bar.

Most nights the place is packed with a combination of locals, wine junkies and vintners straight from the fields. It's a place to kick back, down a few oysters and genuflect before those rare bottles in the "Holy Grail" case.

The [wine] list runs seven pages, ranging from local vintages to Australian and European varietals, magnums and half bottles. Prices are lowest if you take the bottle to go, but the menu has a handy price guide letting you know exactly how shafted you'll be if you buy or drink the same bottle elsewhere.

Even more fun is the availability of more than 40 wins by the glass. Mix and match and don't stress too much — the staff is amazingly helpful in making good pairing matches and will steer you to good picks.

Aside from Wednesday night hamburgers and campfire chili, the food isn't exactly cowboy fare, though the menu is simple and uncomplicated and the prices hover between $10 to $14 for entrees.

The runaway winner was the pizzetta — billed as "legal ecstasy."

Furthering the Hemingway mythology of the place, Bounty Hunter also offers lunchtime off-road wine country tours for the truly adventurous.

20 to Watch

Exciting New Cabernet Labels

By MaryAnn Worobiec

Nearly 100 new Cabernet bottlings have appeared in California over the past year—and most of them are from Napa Valley. The 20 producers profiled here stood out in recent tastings. They represent the efforts of a diverse group of winemakers: world-renowned vintners, hobbyists, landowners, a vineyard manager and a well-known wine retailer. Some own vineyards and/or a winery, some do not, but each has assembled a passionate and committed Cabernet team. And there's no sign of the boom of new producers slowing—there are dozens more new labels on the horizon, scheduled to release their first wines over the next couple years.

Antica Napa Valley

Piero Antinori, of the famed Tuscan winemaking family, first became involved in Napa Valley in the late 1980s, when he invested in what would become Atlas Peak Vineyards. Today, Antinori leases 500 acres of vineyards to the Atlas Peak venture (a contract that is up in November 2008, at which time Antinori will take over management of those vineyards once again), and with Washington's Ste. Michelle Wine Estates recently purchased Stag's Leap Wine Cellars. Antica is short for "Antinori California." Its debut wine is a Cabernet Sauvignon made from grapes grown in the Townsend Vineyard, a 24-acre Antinori-owned property adjacent to the current Atlas Peak vineyard.

Piero Antinori at his home in Napa Valley. The grapes for his first Antica Cabernet came from a hillside vineyard on Atlas Peak.

89 Cabernet Sauvignon Napa Valley 2004 • $55 • 1,200 cases

Bounty Hunter

Mark Pope established the Bounty Hunter Rare Wine & Provisions catalog in 1994, offering sought-after California wines to wine lovers across the country. These days he also operates a popular wine bar and bistro in downtown Napa. In 1999, Pope started to experiment with purchasing bulk wine to bottle for his catalog, then made the switch to producing fine wine beginning with the 2003 vintage. "I'm fortunate to get to taste about 5,000 wines a year. I have a good sense of what customers want," says Pope. The Justice Series is a trio of Cabernet-based wines that winemaker Marco DiGuilio sees as representing various expressions of that grape: Blind Justice is 100 percent Cabernet Sauvignon; Poetic Justice a Bordeaux-inspired blend; and Frontier Justice a blend that will vary each year, with the '04 version a mix of Cabernet Sauvignon and Cabernet Franc.

95 Frontier Justice Beckstoffer Vineyard Napa Valley 2004 • $100 • 108 cases

94 Poetic Justice Beckstoffer Vineyard Napa Valley 2004 • $100 • 100 cases

create a label. He says they are "set up a like a Loire Valley co-op," with owners receiving residuals. The core of the 2004 bottling was sourced from the Harter, Schwarz and Lopez vineyards. The winemaker is Sarah Gott, formerly of Quintessa.

89 Cabernet Sauvignon Oakville Exposure 2004 • $125 • 494 cases

Parallel Napa Valley

Winemaker Philippe Melka (of Gemstone and Caldwell, among others) is key to the success of this new venture, which was founded by four couples who met in Park City, Utah. The friends share a love of skiing, hence the name and the label design of parallel ski tracks. Parallel debuted with the 2003 vintage, and the 2004 is a blend of grapes from St. Helena, Howell Mountain and the Parallel Vineyard at the northern end of Conn Valley.

Pedemonte

Chris and Mark Pedemonte grew up helping their father make homemade wine in Oakland, Calif. Chris' extensive experience as a vineyard manager for top Napa estates (as well as years of home winemaking) prepared him to launch this label, in which he partners with his wife, Lisa, his brother Mark and a family friend, Tim Conner, who brings a business background to the project. Grapes come from the Round Pond vineyards in Rutherford (see the following profile), a property Chris has managed for more than 20 years.

90 Cabernet Sauvignon Rutherford 2004 • $48 • 272 cases

Round Pond

Vintners sometimes venture into making olive oil or vinegar, but the MacDonnell family did the reverse, adding wine to their artisanal olive oil, red wine vinegar and citrus syrup business. They own 350 acres of vines in Napa's Rutherford district, and for years they sold the fruit to other producers. Now winemaker Cary Gott crafts wine from a portion of their grapes—in addition to its Cabernet Sauvignon, Round Pond also makes a Nebbiolo. The name is a reference to founder Bob MacDonnell's childhood retreat in upstate New York.

Scarecrow

Scarecrow debuted with the 2003 vintage, but the history of this Rutherford vineyard, originally planted by Joseph Judson Cohn, dates to 1945. Bordered by the former Inglenook Estate vineyard, the J.J. Cohn vineyard previously sold grapes to the likes of Inglenook, Opus One, Rubicon, Duckhorn and Joseph Phelps. The current owner, photographer Bret Lopez, named this label in honor of Cohn, his grandfather, who oversaw production of The Wizard of Oz as an executive at MGM studios. Celia Masyczek is the winemaker.

Tamber Bey

Proprietors Barry and Carol Waitte own two Napa vineyards: a 60-acre parcel called Two Rivers, which lies just east of Yountville, and their 11-acre estate vineyard, in Oakville. All of the label's wines, which are made by winemaker Thomas Brown, come from these two vineyards. (Tamber Bey produces impressive Chardonnay and Merlot bottlings, along with its Cabernet.) The moniker "Tamber Bey" combines the nicknames of the first Arabian horses that the Waittes owned and raced.

Ryan MacDonnell of Round Pond amid her family's sizable vineyard holdings in Rutherford. Winemaker Cary Gott crafts small quantities of Nebbiolo in addition to the winery's Cabernet Sauvignon.

89 Cabernet Sauvignon Oakville 2004 • $60 • 400 cases

88 Cabernet Sauvignon Yountville Two Rivers Vineyard 2004 • $28 • 600 cases

Villa Hermosa

Art and Cherie Goulard own a 2.5-acre Cabernet Sauvignon vineyard high in the hills of Angwin, Calif., at an elevation of 2,000 feet. Art, a Napa-based landscape contractor for more than 40 years, studied viticulture before planting his own vineyard. This is the couple's debut commercial release, with help from vintner Andy Schweiger.

92 Cabernet Sauvignon Howell Mountain 2004 • $75 • 171 cases

Waypoint

A "waypoint" represents a particular location along a route of travel. It is with this spirit of a sense of place that Napa-based retailer Mark Pope started his second label (see "Bounty Hunter," profiled above) to focus on site-specific wines. Each of Waypoint's bottlings is vineyard-designated, sourced from sites such as the Beckstoffer To Kalon Vineyard and the Hidden Ridge Vineyard (see above). Marco DiGiulio is the winemaker.

92 Cabernet Sauvignon St. Helena Beckstoffer Dr. Crane Vineyard 2003 • $80 • 480 cases

91 Cabernet Sauvignon Oakville Beckstoffer To Kalon Vineyard 2003 • $80 • 460 cases

California's Surprising 2004 Cabernets: 20 to Watch

Exciting New Cabernet Labels

By MaryAnn Worobiec

From Wine Spectator magazine, November 15, 2007 issue

Nearly 100 new Cabernet bottlings have appeared in California over the past year-and most of them are from Napa Valley. The 20 producers profiled here stood out in recent tastings. They represent the efforts of a diverse group of winemakers: world-renowned vintners, hobbyists, landowners, a vineyard manager and a well-known wine retailer. Some own vineyards and/or a winery, some do not, but each has assembled a passionate and committed Cabernet team. And there's no sign of the boom of new producers slowing-there are dozens more new labels on the horizon, scheduled to release their first wines over the next couple years.

ANTICA NAPA VALLEY

Piero Antinori, of the famed Tuscan winemaking family, first became involved in Napa Valley in the late 1980s, when he invested in what would become Atlas Peak Vineyards. Today, Antinori leases 500 acres of vineyards to the Atlas Peak venture (a contract that is up in November 2008, at which time Antinori will take over management of those vineyards once again), and with Washington's Ste. Michelle Wine Estates recently purchased Stag's Leap Wine Cellars. Antica is short for "Antinori California." Its debut wine is a Cabernet Sauvignon made from grapes grown in the Townsend Vineyard, a 24-acre Antinori-owned property adjacent to the current Atlas Peak vineyard.

Score	Wine	Price	Cases Made
89	Cabernet Sauvignon Napa Valley 2004	$55	1,200

BOUNTY HUNTER

Mark Pope established the Bounty Hunter Rare Wine & Provisions catalog in 1994, offering sought-after California wines to wine lovers across the country. These days he also operates a popular wine bar and bistro in downtown Napa. In 1999, Pope started to experiment with purchasing bulk wine to bottle for his catalog, then made the switch to producing fine wine beginning with the 2003 vintage. "I'm fortunate to get to taste about 5,000 wines a year. I have a good sense of what customers want," says Pope. The Justice Series is a trio of Cabernet-based wines that winemaker Marco DiGuilio sees as representing various expressions of that grape: Blind Justice is 100 percent Cabernet Sauvignon; Poetic Justice a Bordeaux-inspired blend; and Frontier Justice a blend that will vary each year, with the '04 version a mix of Cabernet Sauvignon and Cabernet Franc.

92	Cabernet Sauvignon Napa Valley Blind Justice To Kalon Beckstoffer Vineyard 2004	$100	141

BRANDLIN

Cuaison is perhaps best known for producing Carneros Chardonnay, but in 1998, the winery, which is owned by the Swiss-based Schmidheiny family, purchased a historic 170-acre ranch on Mount Veeder founded by the Brandlin family in 1926. (Chester Brandlin, now in his eighties, still lives on the property.) The vineyard is so good, says winemaker Steve Rogstad, that the decision was made to bottle its fruit -under this separate label. "The site produces very fragrant, solid, tannic-structured and muscular wines," he says, adding that there is a good natural acidity in the wine
